Ardennes will offer laboratory and radiology-based services such as blood tests, X-ray and ultrasound to these corporate clients

The primary healthcare arm of SGX-listed multidisciplinary healthcare specialist Livingstone Health Holding (Livingstone Health) launched Ardennes Healthcare (Ardennes), a one-stop health screening and radiology centre.

Ardennes will be poised to offer laboratory and radiology-based services such as blood tests, X-ray and ultrasound to these corporate clients as well as middle-upper PMETs. Ardennes, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Livingstone Health's 51 per cent-held Phoenix Medical Group (PMG), will be led by an experienced clinical team.

Ardennes is expected to increase its range of services to include mammography and bone density scans over the next financial year ending March 31, 2022.

Dr Wilson Tay, CEO, Livingstone Health, said, "The healthcare screening service is in line with the Group's mission to offer multi-disciplinary healthcare. Patients will receive a comprehensive screenshot of their health in a convenient and timely manner while having the option to be referred to a trusted network of specialists should the need arise."
