Together, they are in pole position to revolutionise the health and wellness industry

European Wellness Biomedical Group (EW Group) has signed a Memorandum of Understanding with DXN Holdings Berhad (DXN) to jointly develop and establish a comprehensive wellness centre that draws from the extensive expertise and experience of both parties.

EW Group is renowned for its pioneering work in precursor stem cell therapeutics, immunomodulation, nutraceuticals, bio-regenerative medicine and more, in addition to its growing network of over 40+ internationally-accredited medical wellness hospitals and centres around the world specializing in bio-regenerative medicine.

Their goals align with DXN, one of the most established and globalised publicly-listed Malaysian companies in researching, producing, and marketing organic health and wellness products.

As part of the agreement, EW Group will be engaging in research and development in partnership with renowned universities – including but not limited to Heidelberg University of Germany, the University of California of Irvine, USA, and others – to further bolster scientific and medical knowledge in stem cells, peptides, age reversal, immunology, senescence cells, and Phyto and Myco therapies.

Throughout the partnership, EW Group will also be providing wellness expertise, academic support, nutraceuticals, and training knowledge to all DXN distributors worldwide, while both parties will promote and engage in cross-selling of their respective products.
