Strong platform for advancing healthcare, fintech and AI innovations that can deliver meaningful impact across the region and the world

The Gates Foundation announced plans to establish a presence in Singapore to strengthen its partnerships with government, philanthropies, and institutions across Southeast Asia and support progress toward global health and development goals.

“We look forward to partnering with the Gates Foundation to scale impactful solutions across Southeast Asia and beyond, tapping on Singapore’s status as a hub for innovation. Singapore’s strategic location and research ecosystem makes it a strong platform for advancing healthcare, fintech and AI innovations that can deliver meaningful impact across the region and the world.” said Jermaine Loy Managing Director EDB.

Supported by the Singapore Economic Development Board (EDB), the establishment of a Singapore presence reflects the Foundation’s broader commitment to working alongside countries and partners to help more people live healthy and productive lives, and to accelerate progress toward achieving the Sustainable Development Goals.

“As the Gates Foundation marks 25 years, we’re excited to strengthen our presence in Southeast Asia through Singapore. Singapore’s leadership in innovation and philanthropy makes it an ideal hub to help scale solutions that improve lives across the region and beyond.” Hari Menon Director, South & Southeast Asia Gates Foundation.
