Advances Dawn's mission to expand access to high-quality, affordable medical technologies across Southeast Asia

Singapore-based Dawn Medical Technologies, CBC Group's MedTech commercialisation platform, has announced the acquisition of a controlling interest in Pinnacle Health Equipment Joint Stock Company, one of Vietnam's largest and most established full-service MedTech distributors.

This strategic transaction marks Dawn's entry into the fast-growing Vietnamese market and CBC Group's first acquisition in the MedTech space in Southeast Asia.

Backed by CBC Group, Asia's largest healthcare-dedicated asset management firm, Dawn is building a leading MedTech commercialization platform that connects upstream sourcing capabilities with downstream commercial excellence to expand access to high-quality, affordable medical solutions across emerging markets anchored in Southeast Asia.

Founded in 2015, Pinnacle Health has earned a strong reputation for deep product expertise and high quality customer service. Headquartered in Ho Chi Minh City, the company represents leading global MedTech companies, and serves hospitals and clinics nationwide.

With Vietnam's healthcare expenditure expected to grow at 8 – 9% annually, the acquisition provides Dawn with an immediate, scaled, and highly respected local platform.

This acquisition aligns with Dawn's strategy to lead MedTech commercialisation in the region by consolidating fragmented markets and leveraging regulatory and commercial excellence across Asia to improve access to critical medical technologies.
