

AirStrip enters the Australian market

19 February 2015 | News | By BioSpectrum Bureau

AirStrip enters the Australian market

Singapore: US-based AirStrip recently inked a pact with Life Monitor, a subsidiary of Cardioscan, to sell AirStrip solutions in Australia and New Zealand.

AirStrip mobile interoperability platform and the Sense4Baby-wireless fetal/maternal monitoring system are the two technologies covered as a part of the agreement.

Mr Merredea Hudgson, CEO, Cardioscan, said, "We are delighted to partner with AirStrip in Australia and New Zealand. We believe that these markets will be a very successful for AirStrip and Life Monitor."

Mr Matt Patterson, president, AirStrip, said, "By serving as a catalyst for customer innovation, we believe AirStrip solutions will quickly be adopted by leading providers in Australia and New Zealand, and we look forward to implementing this phase of AirStrip's international rollout plan."