

Pamlico invests in Becker's Healthcare

17 July 2017 | News

Barings, one of the world's leading asset management firms, provided the funding for the transaction.

Pamlico Capital has made an undisclosed investment in Chicago-based Becker's Healthcare, a provider of business information for hospital operators. Barings, one of the world's leading asset management firms, provided the funding for the transaction.

Chicago based Becker's Healthcare is a leading source of business information for hospital operators and other leaders in the healthcare sector. Becker's serves more than 600 customers under four core brands targeting specific healthcare verticals – Hospitals, Ambulatory Surgery Centers, Spine/Orthopedics, and Infection Control & Clinical Quality. Within the core verticals, Becker's has five industry conferences, eleven digital properties, and four magazines to engage healthcare industry leaders and key decision makers.

Pamlico Capital seeks growth equity and buyout investments of up to $100 million alongside proven management teams in its target industries: business and technology services, communications and healthcare.

This partnership with Pamlico Capital represents the third investment Baring has made with the firm in the last two years.