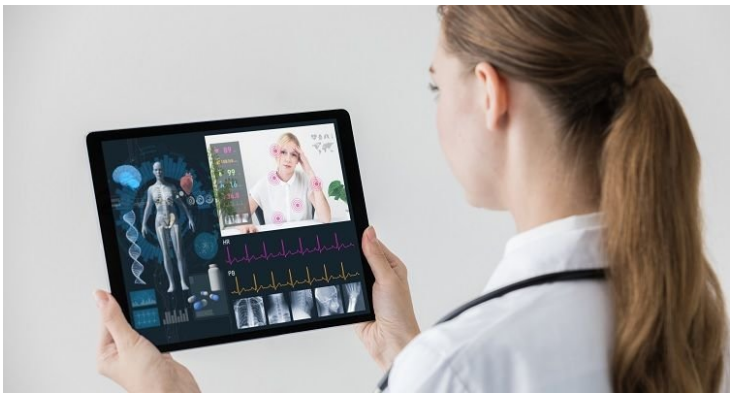
Smartfuture introduces Teleconsultation and Marketplace

March 4, 2019 | News

Smartfuture strives to position Medcheck as the go-to App for Health and Wellness in Singapore.



Smartfuture has recently announced the latest features to the Medcheck App - Teleconsultation and Marketplace. With these new features, Smartfuture strives to position Medcheck as the go-to App for Health and Wellness in Singapore.

The current Medcheck App, available for free on the Apple store and Play store, allows users to track their health vitals checked at Medcheck health kiosks. Users can also generate and share reports with their phone contacts.

The new feature - Teleconsultation - will allow users to video call accredited fitness experts and certified nutritionists for advice and support. The specialists will be able to view users' health vitals during the video call, enabling them to provide personalized diet and fitness programmes. Users will pay per minute of video call rather than full hour of consultation, making Medcheck the ideal App for 'Quick Question' consultation.

The second feature - Marketplace - will introduce users to a wide range of health and wellness products and services. From fitness training to dance classes to healthy food delivery, the choices are unlimited. The number of listings will continue to increase to cater to the growing health-conscious population.
