UPS Healthcare launches healthcare packaging and shipments services in Singapore

October 7, 2022 | News

Aims to leverage time and temperature-sensitive shipments for therapeutics, tissue samples, and surgical essentials in the APAC region

The global healthcare logistics company, UPS Healthcare has launched "UPS Premier Gold" in Singapore, a specialised time and temperature sensitive shipping service in Singapore to focus on Asia-Pacific region for patient-critical product.

UPS Premier Gold will be focusing on acceleration and ‘first-in first-off’ prioritisation, and near real-time monitoring made possible through state-of-the-art proprietary mesh sensors built into the package labelling to narrow visibility down to three metres within the UPS network.

Critical healthcare packages that utilise UPS Premier Gold typically include tissue samples, biopsies, implantable medical devices for scheduled surgeries, and personally formulated medications.

Innovations in biologics, specialty pharmaceuticals, and medications genetically personalised for each patient's needs are driving significant demand for precision logistics to support more patient-critical, time- and temperature-sensitive products. UPS Healthcare has 11+ million square feet of cGMP and GDP-compliant healthcare distribution space globally.
