BioSpectrum
the business of Bio & Health Sciences
ASIA EDITION

Singapore's Fortis Surgical Hospital is now Concord Medical Services

October 16, 2015 | News | By BioSpectrum Bureau

Singapore's Fortis Surgical Hospital is now Concord Medical Services

Singapore: Concord Medical Services, China based hospital management solution provider, has received Singapore's approval to change the name of the Fortis Surgical Hospital, which was acquired by the company in April, to Concord Cancer Hospital.

Concord Cancer Hospital in Singapore will provide oncology as its main services, including medical oncology and surgical oncology. Concord Cancer Hospital will offer a number of treatment options for patients including cancer screening, diagnosis, cancer prevention services, chemotherapy and post-chemotherapy follow up, and palliative care for end stage cancer. Using Da Vinci Robotic Surgical System, the hospital also provides minimal invasive surgery on patients with colorectal cancer, urology, gynaecology and other cancer sites.